

the World Congress on Medical Acupuncture

Last news : special award submission

As you already know, 2025 Icmart congress will be held on the French Riviera from November 7 to 9.

Thank a lot for all proposals you send us from all over the world and about a lot of topics. You gave us nice and rich material to create a wonderful program!

BEWARE !

AWARDS SUBMISSION is open and extend to July 30 ! Three types of awards are available.

The ICMART Science Award in Acupuncture and Related Techniques is the main award of ICMART, presented at each ICMART Congress. It recognizes an outstanding scientific contribution in the field of acupuncture, TCM and related techniques. Submission requires innovative and excellent scientific projects either in basic research or in clinical research.

To qualify for this award, please submit one scientific manuscript either published or accepted for publication in an indexed peer-reviewed journal during the previous two years. The manuscript should be accompanied by a brief curriculum vitae of the nominated authors and a one-page statement in plain English for the general audience describing why this scientific work should be awarded. The award-winning manuscript will be selected by an independent committee composed of members of the ICMART Scientific Chapter upon the following criteria: a) innovation, b) level of relevance and c) scientific rigor. The ICMART Science Award is presented at the upcoming ICMART Congress.

Juan les Pins

The ICMART Science Award is valued at 1,000 Euro. In addition, if the winner (one author) travels to the organizing country, ICMART will cover travel costs of up to 500 Euro and the congress fee will be free.

The ICMART Young Scientists Award is to encourage young researchers of promise on whom the progress in the field of acupuncture, TCM and related techniques depends. It recognizes four science projects addressing any topic related to acupuncture, TCM or related techniques – whether it is etiology, pathophysiology, diagnosis or therapy of symptoms or diseases. All submitted abstracts compete for a limited number of 4 Young Scientists Awards. Physicians, scientists, medical students and other healthcare providers currently in residency or fellowship programs of no more than three years after obtaining their final degree are eligible for application. Interested candidates should submit an abstract summarizing their research project. In addition, applicants are required to upload a brief curriculum vitae of the nominated authors and a one-page statement in plain English for the general audience describing why this scientific work should be awarded.

The awardee will be selected by an independent committee composed of members of the ICMART Scientific Chapter upon the following criteria: a) innovation, b) level of clinical and/or scientific relevance, c) scientific rigor and contribution of the applicant to the research project. Precondition for the payment of the award is an oral presentation during the Young Scientists Session at the ICMART Congress.

Abstracts submitted but not accepted for the Young Scientists Award will be considered for oral or poster presentations at the ICMART Congress.

Poster Awards : All posters accepted for presentation by the scientific committee of the congress will take part in the competition. Poster awards will be presented during the Poster Session, where awardees will be asked to give a 10 minutes presentation of their paper. In case of absence the respective award will not be attributed. Each of the four ICMART poster awards is valued at 250 Euro.

In addition, some ICMART members sponsor one or more poster awards so the total number of awards is different every year.

An independent jury will evaluate all poster presentations according to the following criteria:
a) Scientific excellence (all fields of research), b) Innovation, c) Clarity of presentation (visualization, structural logic), d) Understandability.
